The Opera.

The Calhoun Opera Company will be seen at Morrill Hall, Friday and Saturday, March 30 and 31st, appearing in the "Black Hussar" and "The Bohemian Girl." The opera will be handsomely staged and gorgeously costumed. The company was seen here last year and their charming entertainments are still fresh in the memory of our theatregoers. The list of principals will include the following well known people:

The principal place of business will be Las Cruces. Judge Fall is one of the incorporators and a director; and the company comprises a number of Las Cruces, Santa Fe and Cerrillos gentlemen.

Last Sunday being Easter many people who do not go regularly to church made a special point of attending divine service. At the Methodist Episcopal church there was a large congregation in the morning, but in the evening the house was crammed and many were unable to enter. The service was very well rendered.

Mining and Milling.

The Colonial Mining Company shipped 175 pounds of silver and gold bullion through here on Wednesday from that steady producer, the old Maud S. mine at Mogollon.

The Savage Brothers have taken a lease and bond on the Scotch Lass gold claim belonging to Henry McAllister at Central. Work on the lease was begun yesterday.

It is expected that a new mill will be put up at Central shortly for the purpose of treating custom ore exclusively. This ought to be a great stimulus to the development of the mines of that camp.

Hugh R. Hildreth, who has been working the Little Fannie mine and Sheridan mill at Cooney, has gone to St. Louis. Ed Kahlbaum has taken over the charge of the property and has paid the men up in full to date.

Major John W. Fleming, one of the most thoroughly practical and successful mining men in the southwest, has been appointed by the President as mine inspector for New Mexico. No better appointment could have been made.

All the old batteries of the Sheridan mill at Cooney are being taken out and new ones put in. Mortars, stamps, cam shafts and everything is to be new and strong. The stamps weigh a thousand pounds each.

The Canon City Mining Company, operating the Deep Down mine at Mogollon, is changing the former cyanide process mill on that property into a stamp mill. The machinery is now on the ground and is being put in place as rapidly as possible. The new plant will probably be ready for work about the first proximo.

Mr. Collier got back on Thursday from El Paso where he had gone to get the last pieces of iron work necessary for the completion of the Ivanhoe smelter. The material has been shipped and received, and the work on the first 35 ton stack is so nearly completed that, barring accident, the furnace should be ready to blow in this week.

The Maud S. company intends to cut its miners wages from $3 a day to $2.50 on April 1st. They have refrained from doing this as long as possible but the continued fall in the price of silver has obliged them to make the cut. They say, however, that they will restore wages when silver goes up again.

For months past the Aztec people have been driving a tunnel on their mine at Pinos Altos to tap the vein at a depth of 450 feet. Last week the vein was struck, and on being cross-cut was found to be 4 feet wide at that point, carrying a good amount of pay ore. Work has been suspended till further orders can be received from the head quarters of the company at St. Louis. This will enable the mine to be worked much more easily and cheaply than formerly besides opening up a large quantity of new ground.

Three best producing mine in Central, and what promise to be one of the best producing mines in Grant County, the Texas, is working along steadily with a small force of men regularly taking out good ore. A carload of ore running from 200 to 300 lbs. in silver and about 10x in gold to the ton will be shipped about Apr. 5th, and some 50 or 60 tons of lower grade ore will be hauled to the Owens & Porter mill the first of next week to be concentrated. The shaft is now down 210ft and shows the same high grade character of ore from the grass roots all the way down, the quality remaining the same and the quantity somewhat increasing.

The Owens & Porter mill is doing good work in the Central district. Besides treating their own ore they are doing custom work for other mines, thereby materially aiding in the development of the camp. The mill proper consists of a crusher, a Huntington mill of 24 ton capacity, plates and two vanners. By experience the owners have found that they must have two more vanners to enable them to work the plant to its full capacity. These will be added before long, when it is expected that the mill will be able to treat twice as much ore as it does now. Nearly all the gold is amalgamated right in the mill, the small percentage that passes out is all caught at the plates.

One of the favorable signs for the equalization in value between gold and silver in the not distant future is the rapidly increasing output of gold coincident with a decreasing amount of silver. Regarding gold the following figures will show how rapidly the available quantity is increasing:

In 1883 the total number of ounces produced by all countries was 4,850,502; in 1893 the total production was 7,201,307 ounces—an increase of nearly 50 per cent. More than this, every gold producing country has increased its output during the decade—Australia contributed 1,075,000 ounces in 1893, against 1,333,810 ounces in 1883; United States producing 1,233,111 ounces, against 1,451,350 ounces; Russia 1,200,000 ounces, instead of 1,123,000 ounces; and other countries 1,160,000 ounces, against 942,184 ounces. Africa, which has only entered the lists since 1887, has raised its output from 25,754 ounces in that year to 1,563,196 ounces in 1893.

The Boys' Athletic Club gave a dance at Morrill Hall on Friday evening for the purpose of raising some money to clear of a small debt on their gymnasium. The dance was a thorough success both socially and monetarily. More young people were present than ever turned out at one dance before in this city, and the boys cleared about $30 over and above all expenses; this will clear them of debt.

D. P. Carr Answered.

Ed. Southwest Sentinel.

The only way the writer can see to cure my friend Mr. D. P. Carr of his peculiar notion that the tariff on lead ore from Mexico is and has been a benefit to the low grade smeltering ores of this section of the country, is to give him a contract to furnish some large smelting plant with ores, so as to exclude all his available resources unless he pays the tariff or buys in higher priced market. Then ask him to keep on with his contract. That is about the only way to save him that the writer can think of.

The writer's contention against the McKinley tariff was that a bounty on lead ores would be more beneficial towards the development of our low grade mines than a tariff would be. If Mr. Carr can show that the McKinley tariff was not added to the smelting charges and the producers of ore had to pay and those that could not pay it had to die and shut down, then he will also prove that the shutting down (on account of the McKinley tariff) of the Houston & Thomas mines, which is probably the largest low grade smelting proposition in the Territory, was a benefit. For their smelting charges were raised from $9.50 per ton to $13.00 per ton. And all this took place before the slump in silver and lead occurred.

Mr. Carr speaks of object lessons. The best one the writer can think of is one that has emanated from his (Carr's) kind of logic and philosophy. It brought about such a centralization of wealth in the past quarter of a century that today it is estimated that four thousand and thirty-five men control seventy-five per cent of the seventy millions people's money. And these few showed their power at the last special session of congress by whipping the leaders of both old parties into doing their bidding. A blow that makes us all groan more or less.

Yours for justice,

Wm. CHRISTMAN.
